Relevant statistics:

In the last year, the measured Students' satisfaction with the academic advisory KPI was below the target. Due to the Covid-19 pandemic last year, number of contacts (appointments, walk-ins) an advisor makes on a weekly/monthly of academic and career counselling were reduced. Besides considering the survey of final year students as the only quantitative evaluation method, there is a plan for considering the feedback of advising coordinator also can strategically monitor advisor's performance and provide training in areas in which they are deficient in addition to considering the feedback of different level students.
