

Because of the active role of visual presentation in the educational process; the "Educational Satellite Channel" was established at the university undertaken by the e-learning deanship to embrace the students' creative, educational and technical media activities. "Educational Satellite Channel" is considered as the link between university and community, it is the beam in the space of knowledge and specialized in sciences and its different majors through partnerships between the university online portal and "A'ali" channel.